Founded in January of 2004, Infuze Magazine is a leading voice in the postmodern Christian community via their online publication about "creative people and what they create."

Publisher Robin Parrish and his editorial team cover arts & entertainment from a postmodern Christian perspective. The publication's features and commentary are written for accessibility by readers from all walks of life, using the arts as a common ground in a very conversational, "blog"-friendly atmosphere. Infuze believes art and faith to be two concepts that are inextricably linked, because in the end, everything we create is a reflection on the Creator of all.

The publication's mix includes exclusive entertainment or arts features, 10 exclusive blogs, as well as reviews, photo galleries, downloads, and the extremely popular "Infuze Live" where columnists are blogging live from various conventions and trade shows throughout the year (such as GMA, the E3 video game expo, Biola Media Conference, Comic-Con International, etc.)

Infuze publishes an email summary of new content every week, though they post new content every single day of the work week.

"Infuze is the one site that captures the intersection between faith and culture like no other. It's current, totally relevant, and perfectly designed. Honestly, I can't think of another site that performs the same service for those who want reviews, opinions and news on the latest in entertainment and culture. Robin Parrish and his team deserve major kudos for providing this window into our society. Well done."

- Ted Dekker, novelist: Thr3e, The Circle Trilogy, Obsessed (Westbow Press)

"As a longtime fan of your indispensable Christian Music reviews and interviews, I wanted to write you an overdue fan letter and let you know how much I'm enjoying Infuze Magazine. And I can't tell you how delighted I am that you're a comics fan, as well. Thanks for Infuze Magazine and for continuing to provide music and comics fans like myself with incisive, articulate, and passionate writing on both subjects."

- Allan Heinberg, co-executive producer, The O.C. and writer, Young Avengers (Marvel Comics)

"Please tell everyone at Infuze to 'keep on keepin on!' It does make a difference. Readers are challenged, changed, and inspired!" - Kendall Payne, BHT Records recording artist

"Great content and great writing. It's refreshing to me as a musician and believer to come across a webzine that is actually acknowledging the outside world." - Jeremy Casella, recording artist
